The University of Indonesia's School of Strategic and Global Studies (SKSG) is committed to providing an open, high-quality education with national and global standards. Distance Education is a form of openness of SKSG UI to distribute quality education to all levels of society without being limited by the distance of space and time. Distance Education is held using online information and communication technology based on open courses.

Open Courses offered by SKSG UI are in the form of Massive Online Open Courses (MOOCs). This program is part of the initiative of the University of Indonesia's School of Strategic and Global Studies to respond to the needs of the Indonesian people for information and knowledge related to strategic and global issues both at the national and international levels. Through the multidisciplinary-based scientific approach developed by SKSG UI, it is hoped that it will provide an in-depth understanding of developing issues and offer comprehensive solutions.

Participants will get online lecture guides from lecturers, so they can explore reading materials and do exercises independently. At the end of the lecture, a quiz will be given to measure the extent to which participants understand the material.
