Gender Studies, School Strategic and Global Studies Universitas Indonesia

The existence of a gender study program cannot be separated from the many particular problems women face, such as gender-based violence, high maternal mortality rates, harmful cultural practices, and low political participation of women.

Gender studies also reveal various issues faced by vulnerable groups, such as the poor, minority groups, groups of people with disabilities, and indigenous peoples, due to unequal social construction and gender construction, which is reflected in the practice of everyday life to social structures and policy. The gender study also discusses the implications of the construction of gender roles for men and how to involve men in fighting for gender equality and justice. Courses held:
